Proposed Change in the Government of Alaska

The treasury department is dissatisfied with the administration of affairs in Alaska. They complain that the thousands of dollars expended there annually for revenue collections are simply wasted. They believe Collector Bell of Sitka, an honest and efficient man but assert that he has nothing to collect. Sitka is but one of half a dozen ports where goods can be and are landed and half of others he never sees. He occupies his time not in collecting or preventing smuggling but in keeping wild Indians in order. An Alaska commission composed of the chiefs of bureaus of the department recommends the substitution of four judges of the peace with extensive jurisdiction for the present expensive collection machinery. This scheme will be brought before congress next winter

Trouble about a State Dinner Set

NEW YORK Aug 12—An evening paper has the following Washington special: It will be remembered that some time ago newspapers were filled with elaborate descriptions of a state dinner service that had been painted for the White House. The set was to be distinctively American and Theodore R. Davis one of the artists of Harper Bros was charged with the work of painting. Fish fowl and vegetables peculiar to the American continent were to be painted upon the appropriate dishes. This was done with much satisfaction to the occupant of the White House but not as regards his bill for workmanship. The gossip is that the White House people thought that Davis and his brother artists in France who gave their time and skill to the task were doing it with the only desire from motives of patriotic ... on the part of the French ... Hence the misunderstanding and dispute that is now in the direction of a law suit

Depression of Iron and Coal Industries in England

LONDON, Aug 12—The iron workers of the west of Scotland met at Glasgow to-day and fully considered the position of the iron and coal trades. Cupid vs Cupidity.

LONDON Aug 12—The Truth says The marriage of Baroness Burdett Coutts will soon be an accomplished fact, unless the remonstrances of her friends prevail. A Political Murder.

ST PETERSBURG Aug 12—A dispatch from Samarcand says The body of an Afghan in the Russian service has been found near Katta Kurgan on the Samarcand road. He is said to have been on the way from Afghanistan with important papers for the Russian governor general. The murder is attributed to political intrigues, as the papers were stolen and the coachman of the murdered man has disappeared. The Russian authorities have reasons to suspect another Afghan of committing the murder.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

A Philadelphia Excursion Car on the West Jersey Road Telescoped—Several Persons Killed and others Injured.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN]

PHILADELPHIA, Aug 12—An accident has taken place on the West Jersey railroad, near May's landing, to an excursion train returning from Atlantic City. Three men were killed and thirty injured

ATLANTIC CITY, N J, Aug 12—Following are particulars of the railroad accident at May's landing. The excursion train consisted of 26 cars in the first and 10 in the second section. The train was filled with St. Ann's Catholic excursionists from Kensington Philadelphia. The first section left the city at 6 o'clock and the second followed soon after. On reaching May's landing the engineer of the first section slowed up to run on a side track. All the cars had passed the switch except two, when the second section came thundering on behind. The engineer of the latter whistled down brakes, but when applied they failed to work owing to wet and his locomotive crashed into the last car of the first section, telescoping it. As the locomotive forced its way into the car its cylinder heads were forced open and steam poured through the car scalding nearly every passenger in it. The work of removing the injured immediately begun and medical aid summoned. The best cars of the express which had come up were switched off and fitted up as hospitals and in these were placed those last injured and the train proceeded to Philadelphia. Physicians from Camden who came down on a wrecking train which was telegraphed for forbid the removal of a number of the injured, who still remain at May's landing

Later Dispatch—A Scene of Horror.

PHILADELPHIA July 12—As far as can be learned only one passenger, James McSweeny of this city, was killed outright by the accident on the Atlantic City road at May's landing but 41 are injured, some fatally. All seemed to be scalded or burned, very few being smashed or bruised. There were nearly 2000 people from Philadelphia on the excursion. The following is a description of the collision and the scene that ensued

Of the persons on the rear platform of the first train some jumped to the ground and then rushed panic stricken back into the cars. The locomotive came bounding along and crashed into the rear cars still standing upon the bridge, and with such force that the engine fairly plowed a furrow half way into the car and lifted the roof over the smoke stack. The shock broke one of the cylinders of the boiler and instantly scalding water was poured out upon the affrighted and helpless occupants of the car. Rain had been pouring down and all the windows of the car were down and the steam filling it instantly added to the horror of the occasion and suffering of the victims. From out of the concealing vapor came shrieks of women wails of children and yells of men. People on the first train ran pellmell from the cars or jumped through the windows, and it was some time before they became sufficiently composed to make earnest effort to rescue the injured and relieve their sufferings. Sarah Collins, terribly scalded and frightfully injured by inhaling steam, died at Pennsylvania hospital. Sarah Wright died at a residence in Camden this forenoon. Her mother is lying beyond hope of recovery. The list of dead now numbers seven

MAY'S LANDING N J Aug 12—The Union hotel is a hospital and in the parlors are several dead and dying of the disaster. Mrs David McCristal, with face and body frightfully scalded lies in one room, and by her side her husband also badly scalded. In an adjoining room lies Mrs Boodle badly scalded about the head and face. Near her and covered with cloth is the dead body of Katie Welch aged 11. Near by is Lilly Grace who suffers internally. At neighboring cottages are other victims. The body of James McSweeny has been sent to Philadelphia, while those of Miss Mary Henrelty, Freddie Carr, aged eleven years and Annie Gillespie remain. The remains of Owen Walsh and James Mullen bound up in raw cotton and presenting a terrible appearance were sent to Philadelphia this morning. At a farm house, Mrs. Mary Waddel of Camden is lying in a precarious condition. Edward Aiken engineer of the second section of the train, says that the accident was caused by the air breaks failing to work. He believes that had the break operated his train would have stopped in time to have prevented the collision

The scene of the accident is on a straight stretch of track about 200 yards from May's landing station. Part of the first section was on the great Egg harbor river bridge when the crash came. Assistant Trainmaster M Mills states that the air brake had undoubtedly been tampered with whether by accident or design he could not say. He thinks some one must have put it out of order by fooling with it in one of the closets of the cars through which it passes

Mrs McCristal died this afternoon. Lillie Grose is terribly scalded and not expected to live until morning. C M Hoagland, conductor and Edwin Aiken engineer of the second section of the excursion train have been arrested on a charge of manslaughter and held in $1000 each. An attending physician gives little hope of the recovery of Mrs Wright at the Pennsylvania hospital. James McGovern aged twelve died this afternoon. Physicians state that three or four more victims of the disaster would probably die before midnight.

Our Public School System.

[From the St. Paul Pioneer Press]

The fact should not be lost sight of that more than three fourths of the boys now in our public schools will have to earn their living by some form of manual labor, and this being the case, it is not kind to fill their heads with the idea of escaping their destiny nor is it justice to deny them opportunity for preparation. The sentimental idealist, whose opinions have given shape to the children's training ... is laming and attempting too much for the great mass of children material which comes under the hands of the teachers and in the end do not really get half the educational benefits for their ... that would result from a clearer adaptation of means to ends—from a more sensible and practical provision for arming the majority of school children with the means of earning their bread and butter in after life. Benevolence is not always kind and short-sighted philanthropy is sometimes cruel

THE VETERANS' REUNION.

Statesmanlike Speech by President Hayes — The True Difference between the North and the South

BRIEF AND TERSE REMARKS FROM GEN SHERMAN.

Thirty Thousand Ex-Soldiers in Line Etc , etc., etc

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN]

COLUMBUS Ohio Aug 11—The presidential party arrived at the fair grounds at 3 P M and were greeted with a salute of twenty guns. Gen Warner's statement in his address that we were sure of our [illegible] for next president was received with ... cheers. When he had concluded President Hayes was introduced and being received with loud cheers said

The citizens of Ohio who were soldiers in the union army are assembled here to rejoice that we had the glorious privilege of enlisting and serving on the right side in the great conflict for the union and equal rights. We rejoice also that we have been permitted to live long enough to see and enjoy the results of the victory we gained and measure the vast benefits which it conferred on our country. One fact will illustrate immeasurably the blessings conferred upon the United States by the success of the union arms. Immigration into a country is evidence of that country's prosperity. During our civil war and the disturbed and troubled years which immediately preceded and followed it immigration fell off and became of comparatively small importance but now our country's prosperity the stability of our government and the permanent prevalence of peace at home and with foreign nations blessings which could not have been enjoyed by this country if the union arms had failed have given to the world confidence in the future welfare and greatness of the United States which is pouring upon our shores such streams of immigration as were never known before. If we take a survey of the globe we shall find everywhere many people looking forward to the time when they can emigrate to some more favored land. Only one of the great nations is in no danger of losing its capital and labor by emigration. All are losing by this cause except the United States. The United States alone is gaining. There is one flag and in all the world only one whose protection good men and women born under it will never willingly leave. Good men and women born under every other flag are eagerly and gladly seeking that flag so loved at home so longed for by millions abroad. It is the old flag under which we marched to save what in our soldier days we were fond of calling God's country. It is easily seen what chiefly attracts this immigration. It goes where good land is cheap, where labor and capital find profitable employment where peace and order prevail and where civil and religious liberty are secure. Ask where in our country does this immigration mainly go? The recent census show us that parts of our country where land is cheap and where capital and labor are needed, that are not rapidly increasing in population. In these states it will be found that two things are wanting. Means for popular education are not sufficiently provided and the good order of society is disturbed by practical popular refusal to accept the results of the war for the union. These two defects wherever they prevail in our American society are hostile to the increase of population and to prosperity. They are found generally to exist together. Where popular education prevails the capital rights amendments to the constitution of the United States embodying results of war are inviolable. It must perhaps be conceded that there was one great error in the measures by which it was sought to secure the results of our union victory. The system of slavery in the south, of necessity kept in ignorance 4 000,000 of slaves. It also left, unprovided with education, a large number of non slave holding white people. With the end of the war the slaves became citizens uneducated whites remained as they had been also citizens. Thus the duties and responsibilities of citizenship were developed largely in states lately in rebellion, upon an uneducated people white and colored. With what results? Liberty and the exercise of the right of citizenship are excellent educators. In many respects we are glad to believe that encouraging progress has been made. The labor system has been reorganized, material prosperity is increasing race prejudices and antagonisms have diminished passions and animosities of the war are subsiding and ancient harmony and concord and patriotic national sentiments are returning. But after all we cannot fail to observe that immigration which so infallibly finds out the true conditions of countries does not go largely in the late slave-holding region of the United States. A great deal of cheap and productive land can there be found where population is not rapidly increasing. When our revolutionary fathers adopted the ordinance of 1787 for the government of the northwest territory, out of which Ohio and four other great states have been carved, they established as the corner stone of the free institution they wished to build this article "Religion, morality and knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall be forever encouraged." Unfortunately for the complete success of reconstruction in the south, this stone was rejected by its builders. Slavery has been destroyed by war, but its evils live after it and delive many parts of the south of intelligent self government without which in America at least, great and permanent prosperity is impossible. To perpetuate the union and abolish slavery were the work of war, to educate the uneducated is the appropriate work of peace

It is plain that at the end of the war the tremendous change in the labor and social systems of the southern states left them in no condition to provide for universal popular education. In a recent memorial to congress on this subject in behalf to an educational fund, Hon A H H Stuart of Virginia, shows that "two millions of children in the southern states are without means of instruction and adds with great force where millions of citizens are growing up in great ignorance, it is obvious that neither individual charity nor the resources of impoverished states will be sufficient for the emergency. Nothing short of the wealth of power of the federal government will suffice to overcome the evil

The president then said that he would deal with the question of education by aid of the national government in some way that general government undertakes public improvements where they are of national importance, but local and private enterprise are inadequate to their prosecution. Where in the U S local systems of popular education are inadequate they should be supplemented by the general government, by devoting to that purpose by suitable legislation with popular safeguards the public lands or if necessary appropriations from the national treasury. In conclusion he said: The soldier of the Union has done his work and done it well. The work of the schoolmaster is now in order. Wherever his work shall be well done in all our borders it will be found that there also the principles of the Declaration of Independence will be cherished sentiments of nationality will prevail the equal rights amendments will be cheerfully obeyed and there will be the home of freedom and the refuge of the oppressed of every race and of every clime

General Sherman followed President Hayes in an impromptu speech. He said it delighted his soul to see so many of the good old boys left. There was many a boy there to day who looked on soldiering as all glory but boys it is all hell. I look on war with horror but if it has got to come I am here said the speaker, and the crowd made the air ring with hurrahs again and again

In the evening the president attended a meeting of ex prisoners of the war, but confined himself to returning thanks for the manner of his reception. A telegram of regret was received from Gen. Garfield

The Grand Parade.

COLUMBUS O Aug 12—A grand parade of veterans of the last war took place to day. It is estimated that 15,000 were in the procession which was over three miles long. Each regiment had its old battle flag and ensigns. In a few cases only one member of a regiment was in the procession but that one carried the flag. The presidential party viewed the procession from carriages

COLUMBUS, Aug 12—The presidential party leave for Washington at midnight. The secretary of the Ex Soldiers and Sailors Association has received a letter from General W S Hancock expressing regret that his engagements would not permit his attending the reunion at which it would be a pleasure for him to be present

AGITATION IN IRELAND

Excitement Over the Boyd Disaster—Collection of Arms and secret Drilling in Many Parts of the Country, Etc.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN]

LONDON, Aug 12—Great alarm and agitation are said to prevail in the vicinity of New Ross, Ireland on account of the mystery and evidences of organization surrounding the Boyd outrage. The disguises of the perpetrators were so perfect that identification is unlikely. Marked attention has been drawn to the fact that the weapons abandoned by the murderers are Enfield rifles bearing the government brand

In the house of commons to day Sir Stafford Northcote, called attention to the New Ross outrage and stated that the guns used were long Enfield rifles with bayonets. Mr Forester chief secretary for Ireland said that the late government had ordered the sale of some Enfield rifles but the present government has stopped their sales. The Irish Times of Dublin asks how many such rifles are in the hands of the people and urges upon magistrates the necessity of inquiring how they came in their possession. It is rumored that 1400 Enfield rifles have been sent from Dublin to various parts of the country within the last few months

THE BANKERS' CONVENTION

Second Day of the Meeting at Saratoga—Secretary Sherman on the National Bank System, etc , etc

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN]

SARATOGA Aug 12—In his letter read before the bankers association Secretary Sherman gives the history of the connection of national banks with the general government. He said that the only limit of national bank issue is the demand for them. With the depression resulting from the panic of 1873 the circulation of national bank notes decreased from $3... in 1873 to $316 390 840 in 1877 when it reached its minimum and with the return of prosperity it has already increased to $344 150 313. With such elasticity there can hardly be for any considerable period in this country either of inflation or stringency in the circulating medium and relief in such cases is fortunately afforded without any special act on the part of the government. By the refunding of the public debt already accomplished an annual saving of $19 307 ... has been effected without withdrawing currency from circulation excepting for small balances adjusted at the sub treasuries. The banks have also at all times and in various ways strengthened the hands of the government in its efforts to bring about specie payments. He called attention to the value such banks have been to the government in comparison with that of banks organized under state law. He disavowed any desire to express preference for depository banks as against the sub treasury system.

"Commonplace" and "Pulpy Prose."

[From the New York Times]

There is one gleam of sense in the farrago of Bunsby-ism and commonplace which constitute General Hancock's letter of acceptance and it is the statement that it is only by a full vote free ballot and fair count that the people can rule in fact, as required by the theory of our government. As the major general, or the "literary feller" who attempted to give shape to his pulpy prose, very properly adds: Take this foundation away and the whole structure falls. On the other hand let this foundation be maintained and the solid south with all the superstructure of democratic hopes depending on it, will be swept away. Let the major general only declare that he will respect the result of no election which is not reached through the means of a free ballot and a fair count and though defeated he will have performed a greater service to his country and his party than he are likely to ... he has the slightest claim to possess.

The Albanians in Open Revolt—Unwilling Turkey Massing Troops to Carry out the Berlin Treaty

BELGRADE, Aug 11—Greece is reported to have sent a communication to Servia dwelling on the past friendship between the Servians and Greeks as reason for combined action in the event of a conflict with Turkey. M Ristics Servian premier has informed Austria that he should feel compelled to instruct the Servian commissioners to quit Vienna unless Austria should herself be willing to proceed with negotiations for a treaty of commerce.

VIENNA, Aug 10—It is said that the porte intends to unite the two pashalties of Albania under one governor general and that this no doubt will fully answer the desires of one part of the Albanian population. Zankoff, Bulgarian premier has declared officially that there would be no rising in this principality in favor of union with Roumania. This movement began in Roumania and is spreading in Bulgaria. He pledged himself that Bulgaria should not take the initiative. The Turkish minister of war will take with him to Dulcigno twelve regiments of infantry and artillery. They are under orders to proceed immediately

A dispatch from Kustendje dated yesterday say that six pontoons and two propellers heavily laden with Austrian troops munitions and artillery, passed up the Danube at night. Other vessels similarly laden but bearing no flag have also been passing up. It is evident that an important movement is in progress

LONDON Aug 12—A dispatch from Scutari says that the national council of the Albanian league has decided to throw off every vestige of Ottoman authority. The population of Scutari are preparing decisive measures against Turkish authorities as complete Albanian revolt. Central Albanian cities have refused to take part in the movement against Greece. League chiefs at Prezrend who had just abjured their allegiance were surprised by receiving a gift of £1800 of Turkish money from his majesty. The delegate who brought this news says: I was informed that the committee of Dakona had issued orders to shoot any civilized European who entered that country and it was the intention to mass Albanian part of the Christian population on this side. The revolt is simply Islam against Ottoman. The revolt embraces Novi Bazar. The plains and mountains swarm with Mohammedan bands marching to that destination well armed with rifles. Here at Scutari the population is preparing for decisive measures against Turkish authorities. Highlanders led by a Mirdite prince, have resolved not to move a finger to oppose the transfer of Dulcigno to Montenegro

CONSTANTINOPLE Aug 12—While the ministers were in council to day the sultan's secretary brought in an imperial order for Riza Pasha to proceed to Scutari instead of the minister of war. He is to start on Friday and carry out the convention of April 18th which provides for the cession of that and which caused an uprising in Albania. If he fails in this object he is to endeavor to bring about the cession of Dulcigno. Selim Pasha has left for Albania with 4000 men. Moukhtar will bring a battalion to Scutari from Salonica and Asim Pasha two battalions from Crete

A Times Constantinople dispatch states that the council of ministers has decided that ministers of War will go to Dulcigno in the war ship Selimier with a large detachment.

FRIDAY MORNING, AUG. 13, 1880.

ALARM IN INDIANA.

It is announced on excellent authority, so our dispatches say, that the supreme court of Indiana will grant a rehearing on the constitutional amendments recently set aside by its decision, and declare them adopted. This is not unlikely. Those amendments, after having been adopted by popular majorities of nearly 20,000, were declared null for short-sighted partisan purposes by the supreme court. The first of these purposes was to help Hendricks to the nomination for the presidency by making Indiana an October state and impressing the Cincinnati convention with the claim that he only could carry it. As Indiana is indispensable as a link in the tail of the solid south kite, it was supposed that the overwhelming necessity of carrying the state in October would make the call and nomination of Hendricks sure. Again, it was believed that with the new constitution out of the way the chances would be far better for winning the state than if this instrument were allowed to stand, for the reason that new regulations were provided in it for holding elections, designed to stop the old practice of importing voters from Kentucky, so common in the southern counties, by requiring proof of fixed residence in the state and county for a definite time prior to any election at which an individual offered his vote. With these views the new constitution, on a made-up case upon which an understanding had previously been had between leading democratic politicians of the state and the judges of the supreme court, was pronounced null. But the objects sought were not realized. Hendricks did not get the nomination; and more than that, this partisan decision, so evidently made in pursuance of an infamous political scheme, aroused the indignation of the people of Indiana; and ever since democratic prospects in that state have been growing more dubious and unpromising. The people wanted the new constitution which they had adopted by a great majority; they didn't relish the act of a partisan judiciary in setting it aside at the command of a lot of unscrupulous politicians, and it has been growing as evident for weeks past as anything can be that the democratic party is foredoomed to defeat in Indiana, and largely on this issue. All information from the canvass tends to show that fair-minded people are determined to punish this flagitious act by which the supreme judiciary of the state lent its authority to a scheme to set aside their lawfully expressed will, to meet a partisan exigency, on the order of crafty and contriving party leaders. Great numbers of independent men in Indiana, who have been acting a good deal of late years with the democratic party, are known now to be in open revolt, mainly because the democratic leaders have resorted to this desperate expedient. At last the managers of the game have become frightened, so thoroughly frightened that they now propose to reverse the decision of the court. They see that Indiana is sure to go against them in October, which would render the democratic cause for November hopeless at once. So now, to maintain standing ground for the fight for the presidency, they find it necessary to provide against any election in Indiana in October,—that is, the supreme court is as ready now to stultify itself for a partisan object as it was at first to prostitute its authority to partisan dictation. The new artifice will not win. More than ever the people will beware of trusting a party capable of these dirty, paltry and unscrupulous expedients for political success. This effort is on a plane with the attempt to steal the state of Maine last year, which so ignominiously failed; and its morals are precisely those of the violators of the ballot-box in Alabama and South Carolina. In all these efforts there is an audacity of turpitude which sticks at nothing that offers a hope of success.

THE EX-SOLDIERS.

An ex-soldier of the 20th Indiana, a regiment which was attached to the army of the Potomac, forming part of the third brigade, third division, third army corps, writes THE OREGONIAN from Clarke county, W. T., to refute the claim put forth in a letter recently published in an Oregon democratic organ and signed "Veteran of the Fifth Army Corps." The claim was that the greater part of the soldiers of the union would support Hancock for the presidency. This veteran of the third corps, whose name is at the disposal of any one who wants it, desires to say to the writer who calls himself a veteran of the fifth corps, that the ex-soldiers who will vote for Hancock (confederates of course excepted) are so few that their numbers will count for next to nothing, and therefore it is not worth while to take them into calculation as a factor in this contest. He desires also to say that though democratic union soldiers are sometimes to be met with, yet the genuine article is so scarce that it is worth while to doubt whether some who make the claim ever were what they profess to have been. He has noted that not unfrequently those who brag about their service in the army were persons who were drafted, who went as substitutes, or who served in a sutler or hospital campaign. Some democrats did undoubtedly enlist and fight as union soldiers in the war, but few of them came out of the war as democrats, or adhere to that party now. For, as this veteran of the third corps says, it is not likely to be forgotten how the democratic party, as a party, opposed the war at every step, how it gave encouragement to the south, and how its leaders and exponents were such men as Pendleton, Voorhees and Vallandigham. If Gen. Hancock has gone to this party the soldiers will not follow him. They will not become renegades and give up the cause for which they fought because he wants to be president.

A great deal has been said in an absurd way by the democratic press about the "soldier vote" being for Hancock. The organs go so far as to assert that most of the union soldiers were democrats. The consistency of this assertion will appear when the fact is recalled that the democratic party furiously opposed the war, declared it a failure, and demanded that the government should surrender to the rebellion. This being the position of the democratic party in relation to the war (see the platform of 1864) how happens it that its members rushed off in such vast numbers to a war which they deemed wicked and unconstitutional, which they held was a failure, and which they insisted should be stopped? It is useless to waste words over so ridiculous a claim. There is, however, a way of getting an estimate of the relative numbers of republicans and democrats in the army. The following is a statement of the votes polled at the elections of 186_ 2-3 and 4 by soldiers from those states which gave their soldiers a right to vote in the field:

State.	Year.	Rep.	Dem.
Pennsylvania	1864	11,351	8473
Iowa	1862	14,874	4115
Wisconsin	1862	8,373	2955
Colorado	1862	567	12
Wisconsin	1863	9,257	747
Ohio	1863	46 315	2371
Ohio soldiers in Libby	1863	162	1
California	1863	4,148	140
Iowa	1863	17 041	2004
Missouri	1863	8 827	777
Pennsylvania	1863	1 302	53
Ohio	1864	82,751	4759
Pennsylvania	1864	26,712	12 349
Iowa	1864	17 310	1921
Wisconsin	1864	15,450	3291
Michigan	1864	9 402	2959
California	1864	2 600	237

The total vote for the republican candidates, according to the above figures, was 229 427, and for the democratic candidates 41 063. These figures furnish the best proof attainable of the politics of the soldiers in the union armies. Of course there is no dispute about the politics of the confederate soldiers, who were all democrats in war and are all democrats in peace. It would be safe to estimate the union soldiers at not less than five republicans to one democrat, and they don't intend to vote to put the democonfederate party in power, because they don't intend to have their fighting go for naught. Consequently only a small percentage of the ex-soldiers are to be found among the supporters of Hancock. They will vote for him now no more than they did in 1864 for his old commander, McClellan, who also surrendered, as Hancock has done, to the democratic party in the hope of being elected to the presidency.

A number of persons tell us that they have read with astonishment the sentiments of the Okolona man as set forth in his letter to the Chicago Tribune, which THE OREGONIAN has reprinted. There is no particular occasion for astonishment. What the Okolona man says is an expression without reserve or concealment of the sentiment which dominates in six or eight states. It is a sentiment of implacable hostility to the constitutional amendments; it expresses the settled purpose of a great majority of the whites against allowing the blacks to exercise the elective franchise, and it frankly declares the methods by which the votes of the blacks are nullified. It is a distinct view of the political situation in Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Texas, Florida and South Carolina, and has partial application in four or five other states. If any one is disposed to doubt it, just let him attend to the published accounts of the way elections are carried in those states, and ask what has changed their republican majorities into a vote unanimously democratic. The Okolona man only puts it in plain words, setting forth without disguise just how the dominant class in the south feel about the constitutional amendments and negro suffrage, and just what methods they employ to render them a nullity.

Gen. Wade Hampton made a speech at Staunton, Va., which is printed in the Staunton Valley Virginian of July 29th, the aim of which was to heal the Virginia breach and unite the democracy on one electoral ticket. He eloquently appealed to their pride in the confederate heroes of the war, and told them that the cause for which they are now contending was the cause for which Lee and Stonewall Jackson fought. Said he:

> Consider what Lee and Jackson would do were they alive. These are the same principles for which they fought for four years. Remember the men who poured forth their blood on Virginia's soil, and do not abandon them now. Remember that upon your vote depends the success of the democratic ticket.

No one will say that Gen. Wade Hampton does not know what he is about. The curiosity of democratic politics is that the democratic party is exhorted to vote for the lost cause for which Lee and Jackson fought, and that a major-general of the union army carries their flag.

There is a good deal of speculation in Montana as to the route to be taken by the Northern Pacific railroad through that territory and over the "ridge pole of the continent." Some surmise that the road, after reaching the Yellowstone, will traverse that valley to a point intersected by the Bozeman pass, crossing there the intervening divide in sight of Bozeman town, sweeping thence across the main range by the Deer Lodge pass. By others the plain line of the road is marked out by a route estimated at over 100 miles shorter distance in reaching the same given point west, viz: Leaving the Yellowstone above Miles City, crossing to Musselshell county adjacent, surmounting by eligible grade the Belt divide, debouching into the valley of the Missouri below the Three Forks, and thence on to the "backbone," penetrating to the west side by one of the several surveyed passes near Helena.

In order to arrive at some general estimate of the amount of subsidiary silver coin minted before 1877, the date of the new silver law, the treasurer of the United states recently caused $10,000 in silver to be separated and examined. It was found that 27 per cent of the amount bore date prior to 1875, and the treasurer thinks there is no doubt that fully 25 per cent of the silver coin in circulation was coined before then. As there are about $25,000,000 of subsidiary coin in circulation, issued since 1875, the total amount in circulation, including the old coinage, is not far from $31,000,000.

It has long been and still is a prevalent opinion among scientists that the denuding of forests affects the amount of rainfall. Prof. Daniel Draper of the meteorological service in New York does not subscribe to this theory, and is likely to be widely criticised in consequence. He has drawn up a chart showing the quantity of rainfall each year since 1835 in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. According to this, the rainfall gradually increased from 1835 to 1869 and has since shown a tendency to decrease. Prof. Draper believes there are cycles of rainfall as there are in sun-spots.

The cotton crops of this country for 1878 and 1879 were the largest ever raised. The ten crops from 1852 to 1861, raised by slave labor, numbered 34,995,440 bales; the ten crops from 1870 to 1879, raised by free labor, numbered 41,454,743 bales.

COLT-BREAKING HARNESS.

NOTICE TO ALL HAVING COLTS TO BREAK. I have invented and patented a harness or Breaking Gear so perfect that I can take the worst case of horse and break him perfectly to the saddle or harness for $5. Runaway and kicking horses are made perfectly gentle by applying my patent gear a few times. A horse once conquered in the proper way never forgets who is boss. I have made arrangements with the extensive firm of Welch & Christiansen for the manufacture of a great many thousand sets of my patent harness, and can therefore sell them at the very lowest possible price. If a man has but a single colt to break it will pay him to buy the breaking harness they are so handy for safety gear for vicious horses.

The patent gear is for sale and may be seen at the saddlery house of Welch & Christiansen, 171 Front street, Portland. Address

OFFICE OF THE

PACIFIC MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

OF CALIFORNIA.

SACRAMENTO, July 1st, 1880.

To all Desirous of Securing the Benefits of Life Insurance:

The first consideration with applicants for life insurance is, or at least should be, SAFETY. Will the Money Paid out for the Policy be Prudently Invested? Are the Affairs of the Company Honestly and Efficiently Administered? When the Policy Becomes a Claim, will it be Promptly Paid, and thus the object which induced the payment of the premiums be fully attained? These are queries naturally suggested, and the character of the answers determines the course of the questioner and the selection of his Company.

In this connection, the Managers of the PACIFIC MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY respectfully beg leave to submit the following facts and statements concerning their Company:

1. Since its organization, A. D. 1868, it has paid 353 death losses, on policies amounting in the aggregate to $902,975.

2. It has Paid to Policy Holders, for Matured Endowments, Dividends, and Surrender Values, in Round Numbers, $1,000,000.

3. Its losses have been paid Promptly and without Litigation. No judgment arising from a Policy claim has ever been rendered against it, and it has no suits of this character pending.

4. It has repeatedly been examined by Sworn Experts, and most through and searching investigations, made of its condition and business, and IN EVERY CASE its Solvency and Trustworthiness have been Demonstrated.

5. Its Stockholders and Directors are widely known as among the most capable business men and ablest financiers of the State of California, and the integrity of their management is unquestioned.

6. The laws of the State including the constitutional provisions affecting corporations, are of the most rigid character, such as to make the Company one of the safest institutions of its kind.

Section 3 of Article XII of the NEW CONSTITUTION of the State of California, is as follows:

Sec. 3. Each stockholder of a corporation or joint stock association shall be individually and personally liable for such proportion of all its debts and liabilities contracted or incurred during the time he was a stockholder, as the amount of stock or shares owned by him bears to the whole of the subscribed capital stock or shares of the corporation or association. The Directors or Trustees of corporations and joint stock associations shall be jointly and severally liable to the creditors and stockholders for all moneys embezzled or misappropriated by the officers of such corporation or joint stock association, during the term of office of such Director or Trustee.

7. Its policy contracts contain no restrictions upon residence or travel, and its forms of insurance are unusually attractive. The Low Rate, Deposit Endowment, and Mutual Investment Policies, are peculiar to this Company, and offer advantages to the insured which are not surpassed, if equaled, by those of any other Company.

8. When desired, Policies can be registered by the Insurance Commissioners of California, on the payment of a moderate fee; and a policy holder in the PACIFIC MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY of California has then the absolute guarantee of the State of California that the money held by this Company against the contingency of his death is secured by bonds and mortgages deposited in the State Treasury. With December 31st 1879, the Company closed its eleventh year, and in so doing affords the only instance on record in which a life insurance company in the eleventh year of its existence was enabled to pay its death losses from interest receipts; not only was this done but in addition thereto a considerable surplus remained.

Believing ourselves entitled to the confidence and business of such as propose effecting insurance upon human life, we solicit their patronage, and pledge ourselves to discharge to the best of our ability the important and sacred trust devolved upon us.

EAST PORTLAND ROUTES.—Henry Warren has charge of the routes of THE OREGONIAN in East Portland and will make all collections for subscriptions there

CITY

THE ORPHANS HOME.—Our Salem correspondent visited this charitable institution near that city yesterday and reports it in a flourishing condition under the immediate control of a board of managers including some of the most influential ladies of the capital city There are at present fifteen orphans under charge and bright happy and healthy appearing all They range from two to fifteen years of age and are apparently well cared for Mr and Mrs Jos Thompson have charge of the farm which is located in the suburbs of the city and embraces 15 acres of as fine land as there is in Marion county The house is commodious and convenient the sleeping apartments being neat clean and well ventilated Some of the oldest do light work around the house and garden but they have very little to do after all and have plenty of time for recreation They attend the public schools when in session and are as a class bright and intelligent The gardens afford them plenty of fresh vegetables several cows keep their dairy well supplied with milk and butter plenty of poultry and eggs the shrubbery literally loaded down with berries and last but not least the little ones have lots of room to run around in Their morals are well trained and taken all in all the inmates have much to be thankful for The managers of the institution have fostered well the funds and their exchequer is by no means empty It is a deserving institution and every way worthy of support Children are cared for from all parts of the state and are made welcome to all its advantages

THE MAJESTIC OREGON.—The Salt Lake Tribune knows something of the majestic river of Oregon Referring to a statement made by the noted writer Dr Holland that there is not on the face of the globe such another river as the St Lawrence it says Has Mr Holland seen all the rivers? There are people who have traveled a good deal who say that in absolute majesty the St Lawrence does not compare with the Columbia It has a volume a wildness a beauty and a sublimity all its own It is a great river fourteen hundred miles above its mouth and as it rolls on it draws to it new attractions all the way until with a wrath which is a terror to all mariners it plunges with a roar as prolonged as Niagara's into the western ocean It is festooned with cataracts. Hood St Helens and Adams are its sentinels it is not only grand itself but all its surroundings are on a scale of magnificence that gives the looker-on a thought that it was the last river for which the finger of Omnipotence marked out a channel, and that the intention was that it should forever be His masterpiece Mr Holland should see the Oregon before he gives his pen so full a sweep

RUN ASHORE.—The steamer Dixie Thompson which is on the Portland Kalama route met with quite a serious mishap yesterday morning At 6 o clock the lines were cast off at the dock and the boat steamed away down the river A heavy cloud of fog hung over the river so that it was necessary to observe the precaution of blowing a whistle every few minutes to avoid a collision The captain of the Dixie Thompson was compelled to run by compass and in some way lost his bearings Ere he was aware the steamer ran upon a slip near the new boneyard below the city Her bow was pretty badly damaged, and several of the forward bulkheads were stove in The passengers and freight were transferred to the steamer Bonita and taken on down to Kalama. A force of carpenters were set to work to make he required repairs All the damage has been repaired, and the steamer will resume the route this morning The steamer was moving under a very slow bell at the time, or the consequences would have been disastrous

THE EXCURSION.—Many tickets have already been sold for the grand railroad excursion to Albany and return next Sunday and a large crowd is assured The excursion is given under the auspices of the following gentlemen Gov W W Thayer Geo C Sears Levi Knott, J B Kellogg Dr C H Raffety and B L Norden, which is a sufficient guaranty that the affair will be conducted in a most satisfactory manner Excellent music will be furnished by the Washington Guard band and good order will be strictly maintained. All those wishing dinner can be furnished at the railroad company's new hotel at the depot at Albany After dinner the large dining room will be cleared for dancing for those that wish to dance. SURVEY OF HOGS BACK.—The survey of Hog's Back under the direction of Colonel Gillespie has been completed The recent flood in the Columbia has, as usual shifted the channel laterally to some extent. There is now a ruling depth of 18 feet at low tide The spit at the head of Snag island is approaching the island The shoalest point is at the foot of Snag island, and shows 18 feet at dead low water The channel in every respect is as good as last year

A FINE DRIVE.—Those who wish to enjoy a beautiful drive and have a magnificent view of Portland and the surrounding country—particularly that lying beyond East Portland—should choose the Slavin road From the limits of the city to the summit the distance is about three miles and no one however indifferent to the charm of splendid scenery can fail to experience delight at the view afforded by the drive

DOWN WITH A CRASH

A Portion of Pacific Dock Gives Way—A Large Quantity of Wheat Flour and Salt Precipitated to the Lower Story—Serious Damage to the Wharf

About 20 minutes past 1 o clock yesterday morning a large section of the second story of the Pacific wharf at the southeast corner suddenly gave way An immense quantity of wheat flour and salt was stored on the second story and the weight proved too heavy for the timbers powerful though they were As to the amount stored on the dock there is a wide difference in the estimate The clerk on the wharf claims that not more than 250 tons were stored on the area which gave way—about 60x90 feet—while the owners of the dock affirm that at least 1000 tons were piled up

Notwithstanding the floor was securely braced the strain proved too great and yielded to the attraction of gravitation The whole mass came down with a dreadful crash The noise was heard for several blocks away and aroused many persons from their sleep who wondered what on earth was the matter Timbers flooring and grain fell a distance of about eighteen feet, and came down with a deafening thud on the first floor How the lower floor could stand the enormous weight thus suddenly precipitated on it is a matter of wonder but apparently it did not give an inch Some idea may be formed of the weight from the fact that solid timbers sixteen inches square were snapped in twain like reeds.

Hundreds of sacks of wheat, flour and salt were burst and the contents dumped together in one indiscriminate heap The damage to the produce is estimated at $500 The wheat belonged to Messrs. Sibson Church & Co but we are not able to state the names of the parties to whom the flour and salt belongs

Early yesterday morning a force of men was engaged in removing the sacks of wheat, flour and salt which were intact, and shoveling up the several contents and putting them into sacks The wharf is owned by Messrs. Millard O Lownsdale Capt. Charles Holman and W S Ladd and leased to Mr Z J Hatch It is claimed by the owners that very little judgment or caution was observed in the manner of storing produce on the wharf Two hundred pound sacks of flour salt and grain it is claimed were piled up 12 or 15 high, and placed as close together as possible The damage to the dock is estimated at $5000 as the entire structure is badly strained and thrown out of plumb by the accident. The owners of the wharf assert that the accident is caused by carelessness or want of due caution on the part of the lessee, and it is quite likely that a suit for damages will be instituted The grain flour etc., was on storage awaiting shipment

It was stated yesterday by numerous architects and builders who examined the dock that the cause of the accident was indirectly if not directly attributable to the faulty construction of the wharf The upright beams which supported the second floor instead of resting directly over the foundation piles stood two feet west of them on horizontal beams 16 inches square. These horizontal beams snapped like pipe stems and allowed the upper floor to fall.

Several days ago some persons employed about the dock heard a creaking noise proceeding from that portion which has given away and also felt the structure jar distinctly However nothing was thought of the circumstance at the time There can be no doubt but that the timbers were slowly yielding to the weight. It was most fortunate that the dock gave way during the night. During the day a number of men and teams are engaged about the wharf, and had the accident occurred then it would no doubt have been attended with the loss of human life

WHAT THE COMPANY IS DOING AT THE DALLES

Every Workman Busy on Freight Passenger Baggage and Dining Room Cars, Locomotives, Machinery, Etc., Etc.

The editor of The Dalles Mountaineer visited the car shops of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company at that point He gives the following account in his paper

The first object of notice which attracted attention after crossing the bridge was the immense water tank under way at the eastern extremity of the yard The capacity of this will be about 100 tons of water and the framework is of the most substantial nature The new roundhouse has just been finished and will accommodate six engines This necessitated a new turntable which is well and strongly constructed. The blacksmiths are sorely cramped for room but as the foundation for their new building is already laid and having a dimension of 100x50 feet this will be remedied To the right of the old shop is the machine shop and our representative was informed by Mr Welch that his department was turning out work as

Rapidly as Possible

The company have commenced work on the new machine shop which will be built up to the high grade This will do away with the inconvenience experienced now as to lack of room From the machine shop we passed on to an incline leading to the car and carpenter shops We noticed here and there around the yard great cases of machinery piles of prepared woodwork for the construction of cars and ties bolts nails and other material were piled alongside the track awaiting transportation to the front. Passing into the car shop our reporter was introduced to Mr C A. Phipps the affable and courteous foreman of this department. Mr P is an old railroader and is thoroughly versed in the construction and putting of rolling stock in working order In answer to our question in reference to work turned out he replied I can't begin to tell you all we have done or will do in the car department, but I will try and give you an idea Last week we finished two fine hotel cars for construction men as ever passed over rails The dining car is 50x9 feet and will accommodate comfortably sixty persons Both cars have the improved ventilator roofs with seven feet ventilating windows on each side For comfort and convenience they can't be beat I tell you Beside this we have turned out fifty flat cars Work will immediately be commenced on twelve coaches—six first class and the rest second class Also two combination baggage, mail and express cars and 120 box cars. This work will be pushed as rapidly as possible and the cars will be put on the road from Celilo to Wallula. I suppose you know they have six locomotives on the way here now some where this side of Portland One has arrived and they are busy in the round house putting her up now When the expected five Baldwin and two Roger engines are in running order the road will be amply supplied with motive power There is altogether employed around these shops between 90 and 100 men and as soon as the material arrives I have every reason to believe that the force will be greatly increased

There is a large gang of men engaged in blasting through the rock back of these buildings now and they have laid rails over 500 yards Some suppose this to be the continuation of the track to Portland but it is not We need more tracks and room for rolling stock All the other departments are as busy as this and will be more so in a short time You see all the wood working machinery is of the latest and most improved pattern The beds are all of iron and there is one planer bed capable of carrying a piece of timber eighty four feet long. All he lathes saws etc are from the celebrated Fay factory Cincinnati A novel and useful machine and one not common on this coast is used for boring through heavy pieces of timber it doing the work rapidly and well.

A great amount of heavy work has been turned out of the machine shops and round house and to Master Mechanic Curtis is due much credit and praise The work has been carried on rapidly and with an entire absence of confusion He is a thorough mechanic a good manager and an officer in whom the company place the utmost confidence while the men in that department speak of him as a just, kind hearted and conscientious man In Foreman Welch he has an able and competent assistant and one whose ability is recognized and appreciated

The O. R. & N Co is a great benefit to our city not only in furnishing work to the vast number of mechanical and other departments but indirectly causes to be circulated thousands of dollars every month among our business men through their employes

VACANCY FILLED

Prof. Roby, of Wisconsin, Elected Principal of the Central School.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors on Tuesday Prof C W Roby of Wisconsin, was elected Principal of the Central School vice Prof S W King resigned Prof C W Roby is a teacher of fifteen years' experience, mostly in Wisconsin He has occupied the positions of Principal of both grammar and high schools and for four years past has been City Superintendent of the La Crosse, Wisconsin, Public Schools. These schools are noted for their high standard of punctuality and low per cent. of tardiness and these results were reached under Mr Roby's management He is not entirely unknown to the school authorities here, as quite a considerable correspondence has been had with him for some two years past on various topics of school work Before the election of teachers, Prof King had informed the Board that he would probably retire at the middle of the school year In view of that contingency was opened with Prof Roby with reference to coming in February next. When Prof King's resignation was accepted the Board immediately telegraph Mr Roby and his acceptance has been received He will leave Wisconsin about the 20th inst and be here for the opening of school The work of Prof King during the eight years he has been in the city schools has been in the direction of constant improvement He was the first City Superintendent, and as such did an immense amount of work while at the same time he conducted classes in the High School The Board will be fortunate if Mr Roby proves to be the man he must be to conduct successfully such a large school

A DIRECT CORRESPONDENCE

FRIDAY MORNING AUG. 13. 1880.

THE CRANBERRY SWAMP.

"Of course," said young Doctor Dedling, "A man has his own fortune to look to."

"Of course," said Judith Gray, and as she spoke the words a cold chill seemed to creep, like slowly congealing ice, around her whole heart.

"If you had consulted me as to your affairs," went on the young man, "Instead of taking this very extraordinary step, entirely without advice or counsel—"

"Yes, I know," hurriedly interposed Judith: "but it's over and past now, so perhaps we had better not talk about it."

The red winter sunset was blazing with sullen fire above the cedar copse in the west, the leafless woods held up their black arms in a sort of wrestling agony, toward the sky, as the bleak wind tossed them to and fro: and a solitary raven utttered his ominous croak, in the woods at the back of the house.

Dr. Dedling shuddered as he looked around him, and glanced out toward the dreary swamp that extended toward the east.

"Such a place" said he, "for a woman to select to live in."

"It isn't very cheerful," said Judith; "but I've lived here all my life, you know."

"The more reason for wanting to get out of it now," said the doctor, impatiently.

Judith was silent. She looked at the blazing logs on the old fashioned hearth, and tried to keep back the fast-rising tears.

Dr. Dedling rose and took up his hat.

"Then I am to consider that our engagement is quite at an end?" said the doctor.

"Yes," said Judith, in a low tone.

"I shall always wish you well," said the doctor, affably.

"I thank you!" said Judith.

"Good-by!" said Doctor Dedling.

"Good-by!" responded Judith.

"The next moment she was alone with the logs, and the cricket chirping on the hearth, and the strange, weird shadows that came and went on the wainscoted walls.

It was just a month to-night since they had buried old Miles Gray out of sight. Little Judith, who had worn herself out by taking care of him, had dropped a few sincere tears on the cheap coffin that encased his remains, but no one else had seemed particularly to grieve.

Mrs. Pytchley, her eldest sister, who was married to a New York grocer, had boldly declared that it was high time the old man took himself off the stage of this world, and had made no secret of her disappointment when it was discovered that a thousand dollars in gold pieces represented all his hoarded wealth, with the exception of the cranberry swamp, upon whose dreary verge stood the house; and this dreary property, by the terms of the will, was to be divided between his two nieces, Judith Gray and Maria Pytchley, as they themselves might agree.

"I'll take the ready money," said Mrs. Pytchley, hastily. "What could I do with three or four miles of cranberry swamp?"

"Or what could Judith do with it, either?" said Hobart Pytchley, who sat whittling a pine stick beside the fire.

"I dare say she could manage very nicely," said Maria. "I've heard Uncle Miles say that he sold sixty dollars worth of cranberries, one year out of the swamp."

"Humph!" grunted Mr. Pytchley.

"And that's legal interest on a thousand dollars, you know" added his wife. "What do you say, Judith?"

"It makes no difference to me," said Judith quietly.

"It does to me, then!" said Mrs. Pytchley. "Because, as you know very well, Hobart's business is in the city, and we could do nothing at all with a lot of swampy land, down here in the backwoods."

So Mrs. Pytchley had taken the lion's share of the old man's bequest, and gone back to her city home, over Hobart's grocery store; and young Doctor Dedling, who had confidently calculated on at least five hundred dollars, to buy surgical instruments and fit up an office in the village adjoining—five hundred dollars as the dowry of his bride elect—broke his engagement in a fit of pique that Judith should have so deliberately flung her fortune away.

"A set of harpies!" cried he, with disgust.

"Stop, Doctor Dedling!" said Judith, coloring up. "You forget that you are speaking of my sister and her husband."

"But they have no business to impose on you thus!" exclaimed the Doctor.

"I agreed to the plan, without remonstrance.

Doctor Dedling shrugged his shoulders.

"In that," said he sharply, "you show your lack of common sense! If you have no good regard for yourself, you might have had for me!"

"Was it for money you wanted me?" demanded Judith, stung to the quick.

Doctor Dedling colored and hesitated.

"A man must take monetary matters into consideration," said he.

And so it came about that the engagement was canceled, and Judith Gray was sitting there alone in the wintry twilight, with clasped hands and head drooped low upon her breast.

Doctor Dedling plodded home to the village, and as he passed the brilliant windows of the little hostelry, he paused remembered the bitter cold of the wintry air, the frosty influence of the breeze.

"I may as well go in and warm myself," he thought.

Mine host met him with a cherry air.

"Walk in, Doctor—walk in!" said he. "Not that room," as Dedling mechanically laid his hand upon the door knob of the department he usually entered. "The Railway Committee is a sitting there. This way, please!"

"The Railway Committee?" echoed Dedling. "What Railway Committee? You don't mean that they're actually taking any steps about that old idea of a railway between here and Glassville?"

"Yes, I do," said the landlord. "It's a committee of rich capitalists as are building factories close to the falls; and they mean to put up rows of tenement houses all along, and lay down a line of rails, and don't say I mentioned it, Doctor, because I only caught a snatch here and there, when I was carrying in the plates, and setting on the fruit, and nuts and wine—but it's to go right through old Miles Gray's cranberry swamp, the new railroad is! And the chairman of the committee is goin' to offer Miss Judith five thousand dollars in good, clean, hard money for her share of it!"

Doctor Dedling stared.

"Five—thousand—dollars!" repeated he slowly.

Could it really be a fact? If so—and there seemed very little reason for doubting it—what a fatal mistake had he made in rejecting a bride who could bring the rich portion of a "cranberry swamp" as her wedded dower. If he had known this half an hour—one little half hour ago!

"Don't fret about him Judith dear; he isn't worth it!" urged honest Marmaduke Redfield, who had stopped on his way to the post-office to bring a message to his mother. "He was always a pretentional sort of fellow, all for outward show, with a heart like a stone, and a nature as shallow as Deacon Doler's brook!"

Judith looked up at the clumsy, good hearted, hard-handed farmer, and wondered that she had never before noticed what a true face, and what clear frank eyes he had.

"Forget him, Judith!" pleaded Redfield; and she began seriously to think that she would at least make the trial. "Come over to our house, and stay with mother. It's too bleak and lonesome for you here—for the present, at least spring will be here time enough for you to come back to the cranberry swamp."

Judith Gray looked round at the solitary room, and thought of Mrs. Redfield's big cozy kitchen, with its bright colored rag carpet, its windows lined with blooming geraniums, and its shrill voiced canary bird hanging over the work-table.

"Do you think," she hesitated "that your mother would be willing to be troubled with such a visitor as me?"

Duke Redfield's face grew radiant.

"Only try her," said he. "Dear Judith, you'd be as welcome as flowers in May."

And the next day Mrs. Redfield came over in the old farm carryall to claim her guest, and the Swamp House was left to its own dreary desolation and the driving snows of January.

Scarcely three weeks had elapsed, when young Doctor Dedling came to the Redfield farm in his new gig, with the old roan horse, that really made quite a good appearance when you didn't hurry, and the road was tolerably good, and he was free from a visitation commonly known as the "heaves."

"There ain't nobody sick here," said Julius, the hired man who was splitting wood at the side of the house, as he eyed the Doctor rather suspiciously.

"No, I know it," said Doctor Dedling; "but I've called to see Miss Gray."

"Miss Gray ain't noways ailin' as I know of," persisted Julius, feeling at the edge of his ax, and still staring hard at the medical representative of Glassville.

"I have called," said Doctor Dedling, with dignity, "as a friend."

"Oh!" said Julius.

"Will you be kind enough to let me in?" persisted the Doctor.

"Taint no use," said Julius, rolling a prodigious pine knot down from the pile, and preparing himself for a stupendous effort; "there ain't nobody at home."

"Nobody at home?" echoed the Doctor.

"They've all gone to church," explained Julius.

"To church, man? Why it's only Tuesday."

"Who said it wa'n't?" retorted Julius. "They ain't gone to hear service—they is gone to be married?"

"Who?" demanded Doctor Dedling.

"Our Marmaduke and Miss Judith!"

And down came the ax upon the pine knot with a crash that made the man of medicine start back.

* * * * *

The new railroad was duly constructed, directly across the boggy depth of old Miles Gray's cranberry swamp and the five thousand dollars was placed to Mrs. Marmaduke Redfield's account in the nearest national bank; and Mrs. Pytchley thinks that she has made a mistake in taking the gold eagles instead of the cranberry swamp—but young Doctor Dedling thinks his mistake was greater still.

THURSDAY EVENING, Aug. 12, 1880.

The call upon the financial market is rather light, the wool trade having decreased in the volume moving and nothing having yet been done of importance in the matter of preparation for the wheat movement. The inquiry from real estate circles grows less as the season progresses, and while there is a diminished demand from these sources the expectation that a larger call will prevail a little later in the season keeps rates firm. The supply of funds available in the way of loans or for the discount of good commercial paper is ample to meet present wants, and with approved security there is no difficulty in obtaining accommodations at 10@12 per cent., according to amount and time applied for.

The volume of general trade is showing some signs of increase, and though the fall business has not yet set in, many country merchants having run short of assortments, are ordering to fill up stocks. Prices for imported merchandise generally are steady with an upward tendency of the market for the staples of sugars, syrups and coffee. Upon sugars and syrups the San Francisco refineries place their own figures on this coast, limited only by the competition which importers from the east could inaugurate whenever prices were advanced sufficiently. The existing reciprocity treaty with the Sandwich Islands, from which most of the supplies for Oregon and California come, instead of cheapening the product to consumers, tends to add to the power of the combination to manipulate the entire trade of the coast to suit the pleasure of the members. It is expected that no great length of time will elapse before another turn upward will be made by these manipulators, and this indication gives holders their present firmness in declining to make any concessions.

Concerning the trade situation elsewhere a New York commercial journal says, there is a visible quickening of the movement with the advance of the summer, and the conditions for a brisk and prosperous fall season were rarely ever better. Good crops, the basis of all prosperity, are assured. The returns of railroad earnings show that never before were the exchanges so large, and the prosperity of the transportation companies is a good test of the capacity of the people for the consumption of goods. During the past year the thirteen principal lines moved over 67,000,000 tons of freight, the toll on which amounted to over $116,000,000, while the gross earnings of the roads reached the aggregate of nearly $530,000,000. The profits are indicated by the aggregate of dividends, which was over $61,000,000. Stocks of goods nowhere appear to be excessive, and the decline in prices during the last four months is well calculated to impart a fresh impulse to distribution.

Domestic Produce.

The wheat trade is in an entirely stagnant condition as far as the local market is concerned. The few transactions reported during the past week have not been regarded as at all establishing an opening price for the season. The demands of shipowners for their vessels are so much above the views of exporters that they are not at all inclined to press business, preferring to await full foreign crop reports and to know the impression these reports make on the markets abroad before launching out into the regular business of the season. The reports are numerous from different wheat-growing sections of the United States, and for a few days past these reports have all been of a very favorable character. In California and Oregon the yield, as far as harvesting and threshing have progressed, the out turn has been even better than was expected. This is especially true of fall-sown wheat in our own state, which has yielded better than before for several years, and the increased acreage being taken into consideration the aggregate production will be 25@30 per cent greater than in any previous year. A few lots of new wheat have changed hands at $1 37½@1 40, which is the quotation nominally given at the close.

Stocks of flour, though sufficient to meet the present requirements of the trade, have been well worked off, and holders are quite firm, expecting to sustain present rates, at least until there is a freer movement of the raw material of the new crop.

Oats of the 1880 crop are coming forward, and though receipts are not large, they are sufficient under a light call to check any appreciative tendency in rates, which are unsteady. Hay, mill feed, etc., are in supply quite adequate to the current demand and prices have slightly weakened.

Potatoes have been received quite heavily, but prices have been well sustained, owing to reports of short crops in some localities.

Provisions generally have shown a firm feeling for a week past and in some lines an advance is noted. There is a large local demand and holders claim, with reason, that the outlook is in their favor.

The wool trade has attracted less attention, though the remainder of the surplus is coming forward pretty freely under a fair demand for choice grades.

Other products are in fair request at the quotations given below.

ENGLISH CROPS AND MARKETS.

LONDON Aug. 12—The Mark Lane Express review of the grain trade for the past week says: Finer weather has enabled farmers of some counties in the south to make a fair beginning of harvest in wheat, which will certainly be a great improvement on 1879, but the yield is likely to be very uneven. Markets have retrograded slightly, but trade is so susceptible to weather that buyers or sellers have the best of the market according as the day is fine or foul. Reaction has been confined chiefly to wheat and flour. Foreign descriptions 6d and 1s per quarter and per sack respectively lower on the week. English wheat nearly stagnant and prices unchanged. Deliveries at several well known markets have stopped entirely. The price of wheat on passage has receded slightly. Red winter for immediate shipment marks 48s, same as California. For September shipments the same rates are asked, but it is really lower. The imports into the United Kingdom during the week ending July 31st were: Wheat, 187,050 cwt, and of flour 233,170 cwt. Barley was in small supply and flow of sale at unchanged rates. Oats were slightly lower, except for best samples, which are unchanged. Maize was 6d lower.

The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast.

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL CHRONIC AND DIFFICULT DISEASES

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.

Swallowing

POISON

Spurts of disgusting mucous from the nostrils or upon the tonsils, Watery Eyes, Snuffles, Buzzing in the Ears, Deafness, Crackling sensations in the Head, Intermittent Pains over the Eyes, Fœtid Breath, Nasal Twang, Scabs in the Nostrils, and Tickling in the Throat are

SIGNS of CATARRH.

No other such loathsome, treacherous and undermining malady curses mankind. One-fifth of our Children die of diseases generated by its Infectious Poison, and one-fourth of living men and women drag out miserable existences from the same cause. While asleep, the impurities in the nostrils are necessarily swallowed into the stomach and inhaled into the lungs to poison every part of the system.

Dr. Wei De Meyer's Catarrh Cure absorbs the purulent virus and kills the seeds of poison in the farthest parts of the system. It will not only relieve, but certainly cure Catarrh at any stage. It is the only remedy which in our Judgment, has ever yet really cured a case of Chronic Catarrh.

MIDDLE AGED MEN.

There are many at the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with too frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found, and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin milkish hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.
